LEWIS CHARGED WITH "DECEIT"

Owners Say Mine Leader Is Trying To Stop Return to Work.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 9—Owners of the seized soft coal mines accused John L. Lewis today of engineering a "deliberate and premeditated" new strike by his United Mine Workers in defiance of federal courts.

The justice department kept secret its own view pending another appearance by Lewis tomorrow before the judge who plastered him and the UMW with fines totaling $3,510,000 for violating a non-strike order last December.

The order holds good until the government returns the pits to private ownership.

Charges "Deceitful Dodge"

The National Coal association declared the latest move by Lewis is a "deceitful dodge" intended to break up a back to work movement which brought bituminous production up to 40 per cent of normal yesterday.

Lewis advised his union locals by telegram during the day that he approves "resumption of production at each mine as fast as it is certified by federal mine inspectors as being in conformity with the federal mine safety code."

Capt. N. H. Collisson, the coal mines administrator, turned down last Saturday a demand by Lewis that the government close the mines until federal inspectors certify their safety.

Collisson advised Lewis that except for 518 mines which the government had shut down as hazardous he would permit the pits to reopen if the operating manager certified them as safe and the local union safety committee made no claim of "imminent danger."

Lewis in Court Tomorrow

Lewis goes back before Judge T. Alan Goldsborough tomorrow to ask return of all but $710,000 of the fines assessed in connection with the 17-day walk-out which began last November.

The supreme court upheld Goldsborough's finding that Lewis and the union committed contempt by ignoring an order to call off the walkout. But the tribunal directed the return of $2,600,000 to the union if the UMW and its chief would comply after losing their appeal. Lewis' own $10,000 fine was left intact.

Reports to the coal mines administration last night showed 1,368 mines working of the 2,500 held by the government, including 700 which employ 66,000 of the 400,000 United Mine Workers. Output was estimated at 900,000 tons, compared with 723,000 Monday.

The CMA said 1,406 mines had been certified as safe by operating managers or jointly by operators and union committees and added that some mines operated "despite orders from UMW officers" to wait for federal inspection.

C. OF C. GROUPS HIT UTILITY BILL TAX

Proposed Legislation Now Before House Committee.

Two groups of the Marion Chamber of Commerce yesterday registered protests against proposed state legislation which would levy up to five per cent on consumers' utility bills.

The proposed legislation, contained in the Marshall bills, is now being considered by the taxation committee of the state house of representatives.

The Retail Board of Managers met yesterday morning and protested against the bill on the grounds it would seriously affect possible industrial development of new industries which would hesitate to locate in a community where the tax was levied. Board members also expressed the opinion that no new taxes should be levied at this time.

The taxation committee, meeting yesterday afternoon, voiced the opinion that Ohio's "no new tax policy," established 10 years ago, should be continued. Recognizing that some cities are facing financial crisis, they urged a more equitable distribution of existing taxes be made to cities for needed operations.

E. L. Cleveland, chairman of the taxation committee, said notification of the opinions expressed would be sent to Representative Kenneth Robinson and Governor Herbert.

The legislation, if passed, would permit municipalities to levy up to five per cent on the utility bills of industrial, commercial and residential users located inside the municipality.

German-Polish Border Survey Group Asked

Marshall Proposes Commission To Study Remapping of Reich Frontier.

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, April 9—U. S. Secretary of State Marshall proposed today the council of foreign ministers name a special boundary commission to recommend a permanent German-Polish frontier.

The commission would be composed of the United States, Britain, Russia and France, plus Poland and some other Allied states.

Marshall suggested the commission also study measures to assure that the natural and industrial resources in question "shall fairly serve" the economic needs of Europe.

"It will be accepted, I think," Marshall told the conference, "that southern East Prussia should become Polish territory; German Upper Silesia and its industrial complex should become Polish, but there should be provisions to assure that its coal and other resources should be available to help sustain the economy of Europe.

U. S. Has Program

The United States was reported authoritatively today to have developed a German boundary program which would retain the Ruhr in Germany and Upper Silesia in Poland.

At the same time the program would give other European states a hand in administering the vital economic resources of both regions.

A Big Four battle over the future boundaries of defeated Germany was on tap in the council today, with the United States expected to ask—and the Soviet Union to oppose—revision of Poland's present western frontier in favor of Germany.

In addition, the ministers were expected to head into a showdown fight on French demands concerning the industrial Ruhr and Rhineland.

Speed-Up Showdown Seen

Western diplomats said the day should bring a clear indication as to whether Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov intends to go along with Marshall and British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin in their efforts to speed up the work of the conference.

Before they tackle the boundary question, the ministers were due to receive a report from their deputies working on German peace treaty issues concerning the requests by smaller Allied Nations for the right to participate in German decisions.

The main points of the boundary program, which form the basis of United States proposals to the council of foreign ministers on frontier discussions scheduled to start today, are reported to be:

1. The council of foreign ministers should accept the principle that the resources of the Ruhr and Silesia must fit into the whole European economy so that neither Germany nor Poland should have exclusive control. The exact details should be administered by a suitable international agency, per-

PHONE STRIKE BREAK SEEN AS LIKELY SOON

Only Cost of Arbitration Reported Standing in Way of Settlement.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 9 — A crack in the telephone strike deadlock was reported possible within hours today as negotiators went on with day and night sessions.

Persons in close touch with the negotiations on long distance lines phases of the national dispute said the only obstacle to a strike-settling agreement for that industry segment was:

Who will pay the cost of arbitrating about five issues between American Telephone and Telegraph Company's long distance division and the American Union of Telephone Workers.

With that question settled, the informants said, the proposed agreement could be referred to the policy committee of the 49-union National Federation of Telephone Workers for approval. The policy committee scheduled a meeting at 3 p. m.

Might Pave Way

An agreement as to long distance lines would leave strikes of various local Bell system operators unsettled but might pave the way for settlement of the entire strike.

As for the money to pay arbitration costs, these informants predicted:

"It will come from somewhere."

At a night session running far into the morning, it was learned, federal conciliators wrote a 101-point contract for the long-lines dispute. It would have left a few of the national issues to be settled by arbitration.

Arbitration Costs Raised

Then the question arose of who would pay arbitration costs which might run $20,000.

The unions said they couldn't and the labor department said it lacked the appropriations to do it.

The questions to be submitted to arbitration in the proposed settlement all involve money, the informants said, although they did not specify the exact issues other than to say that the NFTW's demand for a $12 weekly increase was among them.

Get $100 a Day

Top flight arbitrators get $100 a day, and the record would cost another $200, the union figured, making a total of $500 a day. The case would run about 40 days, the bargaining committee for the 20,000 long lines workers said.

As a compromise the union offered to assess its members $1 apiece, if the company would check it off the workers' paychecks. This the company refused to do, and the stalemate on that point forced postponement of the negotiations until 10 a. m.

Past practice has been for the government to assume arbitration costs in emergencies, but negotiators said they lakced fnds to do so in this case.

Close To Agreement

Representatives of the company, union and the government conciliation service said at the end of a conference which lasted

Ohio Senate Ready for Bonus Hearing; House Out of Step

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 9—The senate military affairs committee put on its first full dress hearing for veterans' bonus legislation today but the house group appeared out of step.

Both senate and house sub-committees have reached substantial agreement on bonus payments but still are far apart on the method of financing the $300,000,000 to $400,000,000 programs.

The senate committee called up the worked-over proposal by Sens. Fred G. Reiners and Kyle F. Brooks, both Cincinnati Republicans, that $10 monthly be paid for service between Pearl Harbor and V-J day, with a $350 maximum.

Bonds issued to pay bonuses would be retired in 15 years by setting aside $1,000,000 monthly from the state's general fund with the balance to be raised by additional tax on real estate.

The house sub-committee's plan calls for extra taxes on such items as intoxicants and cigarets to supplement a really levy, but members expressed doubt that it would be reported to the full committee at once.

Must Be Voted On

Any program approved by the legislature must be submitted to voters for final approval.

The senate at its regular session tackled a half dozen bills, including one to permit cities to obtain sites for off-street parking of motor vehicles and another to appropriate $3,800,000 for improvements at state universities and other institutions.

The house considered measures to relax hours of employment of women and minors in certain establishments and to expand the jurisdiction of Middletown's municipal court.

The house received from the senate today a bill by Senator Reiners to reduce employer contributions to the unemployment compensation fund by $20,000,000 to $30,000,000 annually. The legislature previously approved elimination of the wartime surtax on employers totaling some $6,000,000 a year.

The measure passed the senate yesterday by a vote of 23 to 10; but an emergency clause, which would have made provisions effective immediately upon enactment, was defeated.

Rates Unnecessarily High

Reiners said present employer rates were unnecessarily high, because the fund would reach a record $526,000,000 by year-end and only $155,805,000 had been paid out since 1939.

Employer contributions would be cut from a minimum of .7 per cent and a top of 3 per cent to at least .3 per cent and a maximum of 2.7 per cent under the proposal.

Other measures approved by the senate would give county engineers salaries from $3,600 to $7,500 annually depending on population, enlarge the state fire marshal's office, and extend the .65 per cent utility excise tax to April 30, 1949 with a proviso for county use of balances after poor relief for other welfare needs.

The house unanimously passed a bill requiring sub-divisions owning tax-exempt property in a school district outside their boundaries to pay tuition for pupils living on the exempted property.

Other house-approved legislation would permit Erie and Ottawa counties to contribute financial aid to communities maintaining a resident physician on Lake Erie islands, require payment of county officials semi-monthly, and

DUROCHER OUT FOR SEASON

Chandler Suspends Brooklyn Manager for Conduct Detrimental to Baseball.

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, April 9—Leo Durocher, manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers in the National league, today was suspended for the 1947 season by Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler.

Chuck Dressen, former coach of the Dodgers and now a member of the New York Yankee coaching staff, was suspended for 30 days beginning April 14.

Chandler

The Brooklyn club and the New York Yankee club each was fined $2,000.

Harold Parrott, traveling secretary of the Brooklyn team, was fined $500.

The actions were taken as a result of an investigation made by Chandler after Larry MacPhail of the New York American league club brought charges of defamation against Durocher and Branch Rickey, head of the Brooklyn club.

Durocher

The commissioner found that two alleged gamblers were not sitting in a box with MacPhail during a recent baseball game in Havana.

Dressen's suspension, it developed, was the result of his leaving the Dodger club to work for the Yankees. Chandler said he was convinced the coach had agreed to remain with Rickey for two more years, although no formal contract had been signed.

"Durocher has not measured up to the standards expected or required of managers of our baseball teams," Chandler said in his finding.

"As a result of the accumulated unpleasant incidents in which he has been involved, which the commissioner construes as detrimental to baseball, Manager Durocher is hereby suspended from participating in professional baseball for the 1947 season."

The commission said that in an article appearing in the Brooklyn Daily Eagle, under Durocher's name, but actually written by Parrot, the Brooklyn manager said MacPhail tried to get him to become manager of the Yankees.

In the article, March 3, Chandler said Durocher said that after MacPhail failed to sign him as manager of the Yankees "he resolved to knock me, and to make life as hard as possible for me—but surely people must recognize that it is the same old MacPhail."

Chandler said both Durocher and Rickey "admitted that they had made some such statements" with regard to gamblers sitting with MacPhail at the game in Havana.

Rickey denied, however, the commissioner said, that he ever had said that "apparently there are rules for Durocher and other

PRESIDENT AND AIDES DISCUSS U.S. ECONOMICS

Special Session Held To Hear Reports; No Immediate Program Planned.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 9—President Truman explored the economic problems of rising prices during an hour and 40-minute cabinet session today, but the White House announced afterward "no action was taken or is planned."

Charley Ross, presidential secretary, gave this report to newsmen after the special midweek session of the cabinet and Mr. Truman's top economic advisers.

Added to the lineup around the cabinet table were Edwin G. Nourse, chairman of the President's economic advisory council; Marriner S. Eccles, chairman of the federal reserve system, and James E. Webb, budget director.

The participants referred all questions to Ross. He said there was a "general discussion" of the price and economic situation and that President Truman "did a lot of listening."

Declines To Give Report

Ross declined to detail Nourse's report on the inflationary outlook. Yesterday, Nourse told reporters he viewed it as "serious."

Ross said Nourse gave the cabinet officer his views.

But Ross said the official family made "no attempt to arrive at a "consensus."

Nourse was asked by Mr. Truman to discuss the problem with his top-level government policy makers after the economist submitted a memorandum to the President yesterday on what he called the "serious" inflationary threat.

To Canvass Situation

"The President wants to canvass the situation with the cabinet," Nourse said later. "The question in mind is whether official steps should be taken."

From Capitol Hill came one challenge to the view the government should take any steps. Rep. Mason (R-Ill) decried the "mistaken notion that a mythical, paternalistic Uncle Sam has magical powers to bring about higher wages and lower prices."

The housewife has the remedy in her own hands, Mason said in a statement.

The only way to reduce prices of scarce food items is not to buy them; buy substitutes for them."

The line of White House strategy was uncertain.

Nourse said he had no specific recommendations to give. But he indicated the cabinet members might be urged to intensify the twin-pronged administration campaign for (a) voluntary price cuts by businessmen and (b) moderation in wage demands by labor unions.

Appeals to business already have been delivered by Secretary of Treasury Snyder, Secretary of Commerce Harriman, and Mr. Truman himself.

Three weeks ago, Nourse said, it appeared that prices, except for food and farm products, were about to "reach a ceiling and make an orderly adjustment downward."

Instead, however, the bureau of labor statistics wholesale commodity index has risen on two successive weeks to new highs since September 1920 and the labor relations picture darkened with Monday's telephone strike.

"United States Steel has announced the position that it cannot do anything about prices until its wage problem is straightened out," Nourse said.

"In telephones a wage increase is demanded which the systems say they cannot meet without a rate increase. Settlements remain to be reached in automobiles and in other industries.

"The chilling effect of the wage uncertainty will be felt in the non-agricultural lines."

Original Portal Suit Fades Into Oblivion

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, April 9—The famous Mt. Clemens (Mich.) Pottery Co. portal-to-portal pay suit, an action which touched off similar claims for nearly $6,000,000,000 today, faded into oblivion—removed from further consideration by any court.

The end came yesterday as the Sixth U. S. circuit court of appeals here dismissed an appeal of Local 1058 United Pottery Workers from an adverse lower court decision in their suit for $100,000 retroactive pay judgment against the Michigan firm.

The union local last week asked that its appeal be dismissed "with prejudice" and consent [illegible] company agreed to [illegible]

Frank Sinatra in New Role As Hollywood Night Club Brawler

By The Associated Press

HOLLYWOOD, April 9—Frank Sinatra, the crooning idol of the bobby soxers, took an assortment of pokes at Lee Mortimer, 42, movie columnist for the New York Daily Mirror, at Ciro's night club late last night, Mortimer told sheriff's deputies today.

Mortimer appeared at the West Hollywood sheriff's station, his head bruised and, Sheriff's Deputy R. I. Wright said, claimed "Sinatra and three heavies" set upon hi mwithout warning, knocked upon him down and pummeling him.

Subsequently a representative of Sinatra said the fracas was set off when Sinatra overheard Mortimer call him an unprintable name, climaxing the crooner's two-year irritation over articles Mortimer had written about him.

Mortimer told reporters and the deputies:

"I was leaving Ciro's with Miss Kay Kino, a band singer, when Sinatra and three men jumped me. The first thing I knew, I was on the floor and the next thing I knew was when I saw a face that looked like Sinatra's above me."

The columnist conceded that in various columns he had been less than complementary to Sinatra.

Deputy Wright said Mortimer announced he would return today to obtain an assault and battery warrant against Sinatra. The columnist was at the night club with Nat Dallinger, movieland photographer, Mrs. Dallinger and others.

Wright said Dallinger appeared with Mortimer as a witness.

Sinatra, who apparently was unscathed, could not be reached but his publicist, Jack Keller, gave this account of the affair:

"Mortimer was leaving Ciro's with a girl. Frank was in the foyer and heard Mortimer say to the girl 'There's that . . . . now,' it was an epithet no man could take so Frank let him have it. Nobody held Mortimer dow nand there were no 'heavies' with Frank."

Keller said Sinatra told him later: "When a man calls me the names he did, that's too much for anyone."

Keller added that "Frank regrets this, of course, and he'll be available if Mortimer prefers charges."

Still later Mortimer said "I will obtain a warrant in the morning."

He denied he had called Sinatra any names.

"I couldn't have because I didn't know he was there. I was hit from behind. Somebody held me down because I have bruises on my wrists, as well as my head, and Nat Dallinger pulled two guys off of me."

NEWARK, O., April 9—Results of an autopsy on the body of 38-year-old Frank Merryman were awaited by Licking county authorities today after the man's widow declared yesterday Newark police beat him "severely."

Merryman, who was dead on arrival at Newark hospital, was the father of four children. Patrolmen Carl Koblenz and Bryan Woolard, both named by Mrs. Merryman, denied they beat Merryman.

Erie Railroad To Get 500 Box Cars With New Loading Device

Special to The Star

CLEVELAND, April 9 — Five hundred new 40-ton steel box cars to be delivered to the Erie railroad in June will include a loading device invented and patented by H. D. Barber, Erie's vice president of operation. It is designed to provide safer movement of freight and to reduce shippers' expense in loading, blocking and bracing of various commodities.

The new cars, which are called "economy safe-load" cars, incorporate strips of steel along the side walls to which cleats flush with the walls have been welded. With this addition, steel strapping or wire can ge threaded through the lugs to hold shipments tightly in place and prevent shifting or moving while in transit.

This new device eliminates the necessity for placing anchor plates on side walls of cars, thus eliminating damage to walls, and after unloading has been completed, the shipper has a clean car suitable for reloading.

The "economy safe-load" cars have been tested in actual service with all types of commodities and shipments have reached destination in good condition. The success of the experimental cars has led to the installation of this equipment in the new box cars now being purchased.

Economic Outlook in U. S. Is for Current Boom To Last at Least 3 Months, Survey Indicates

Will there be a business recession in the United States? If so, when will it come, how hard will it hit? The immediate future of business in this country is of vital interest to all the world. The Associated Press has surveyed prospects across the country, and presents the results in a series of three articles. This is the first.

By The Associated Press

The outlook is that the current record-breaking business boom in the United States will continue for at least another three months.

After that, the much-discussed recession may come. It is far from certainty, however. And if it does come, the recession need not lead to a depression.

Many economists and business leaders expect a recession will not lead to a depression.

Many economists and business leaders expect a recession will attain statute this summeer. They say that the economy is getting too far out of kilter; that many prices are too high, and that inventories are getting too great as consumers tighten their buying.

There already are indications of a levelling off in retail sales, the Easter season being especially disappointing.

Sums Up Business Thinking

This is the essence of a survey made by The Associated Press across the country at the close of 1947's first quarter. It sums up the thinking of business leaders and high-ranking economists in government, industry and labor, and factual information culled from key American business centers.

Labor difficulties could upset the productions. A prolonged closing of the coal mines, more strikes like the telephone walkout could affect the national scene. Wage negotiations in important industries are pending which might lead to strikes, curtailing production and disrupting the economic time-table.

When a recession may come, it might be are all questions for how long it might last and how severe it might be are all questions for the future to answer. Economists disagree, except that most expect something of the sort this year. A minority feels that both high prices and high wages can be maintained without a recession.

Still Little Gloom

There is little gloom surrounding the recession talk. Such a period of readjustment would be normal after the present post-war boom. It could be a healthful phase, a period of making the nation's economy ship-shape, after which there could be continued prosperity and a continued rise in the standard of living.

But for now, business charts remain heavily weighted with factors favorable to a continuation in the second quarter of trends which made the first three months of 1947 outstandingly good. Some of the factors are:

Around 56,000,000 civilians are gainfully employes against less than 2,500,000 out of work.

Income payments to individuals are running at an annual rate of about $177,000,000,000, an all-time record for the country, including the prosperous war years. (In 1939 it was $70,800,000,000.)

Liquid Assets Tremendous

More than $150,000,000,000 is tucked away in liquid assets that can be used by individuals at will to increase current expenditures.

There is an enormous pent-up demand for all types of durable consumer goods, such as furniture, home appliances and automobiles, that ru ninto uncounted billions of dollars.

We have the most acute housing shortage in history, calling for a building boom sometime, of tremendous proportions.

Corporation income and divided payments are high.

Money for investment at record low interest rates is abundant.

Plant expansion and modernization is proceeding at a rate twice as great as during the best years between 1929 and 1941.

Exports High

American exports reached a new post-war high in dollar value during February. In this short month they totalled $1,153,000,000, a gain of $37,000,000 over January and the highest since $1,187,000,000 in November, 1944, which was 76 per cent lend-lease.

Farm income will amount to $1,800,000,000 in April, 15 per cent above April, 1946, the agriculture department estimates. During the first quarter it averaged 28 per cent above last year.

Exports and farm markets depend to a great extent on American loans abroad, and the government's lending policies will determine much of their future.

The nation's steel mills at the end of March were running at 97 per cent of capacity, a post-war record. The high in 1946 was 88.9 per cent, also in late March. Demand is still strong.

Autos On Upgrade

Automobile production is continuing to climb, reaching 415,681 cars in March, compared to 399,082 in February and 372,249 in January. There still is a big backlog of orders.

Against these favorable points, economists weigh important factors that are unfavorable. Some of them are:

In many large cities business has declined sharply in the so-called luxury brackets, including the night club other expensive entertainment fields. Movie attendance is off in some places. A slump in this type of spending could be a first sign of recession.

The average citizen seems convinced that many prices are too high, and economists hold that this conception, whether justified or not, could itself bring about a recession or even a depression if it persits. While dollar volume in retail sales generally remain high, unit sales already are falling off.

The foreign situation is uncertain, adding to the risks of management planning. It remains a major imponderable factor, a dampening influence on business felt to some degrees almost throughout the economy.

While business failures are still comparatively low—63 in the latest recorded week—they were nearly four times as numerous as last year and probably would mount sharply in any sizable recession. The large number of firms incorporated since 1940 have known only good times. The magazine "Business Week" recently estimated that these comprised one out of every five business enterprises in the United States, a relatively large number which would be among the most vulnerable to an economic dip. They are untested in bad times.

Commercial, agricultural and business loans of 101 reporting banks of the federal reserve system have risen to an all-time high of above $11,000,000,000 this indicates goods are piling up—that production and distribution, basic factors in the economy, are out of kilter.

The country's economists, weighing the factors on both sides, generally agree that a period of readjustment must come this summer. Most predict a recession. Their views will be discussed in detail tomorrow.

SEIZES PHONE CO. New Jersey Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll has seized the facilities of the New Jersey Bell Telephone Co. under a 1946 anti-utility strike law, but employes of the concern are ignoring the action and continuing the picketing that spells the nationwide walkout of NFTW members.

CAPACITY AUDIENCE SEES PAGEANT AT CALEDONIA

"The Pilgrim's Hope" Presented at Church of Christ.

A capacity audience filled the Caledonia Church of Christ Sunday night for the presentation of a pageant, "The Pilgrim's Hope." It centered around a young Babylonian wise man who for 33 years searched after a royal earthly king to find in the end his eternal king in the Christ of humility and love who died to bring the hope of everlasting life. The search took Pilgrim through many scenes of Christ's life which were depicted by stage size shadow pictures.

In the leading roles of Pilgrim as boy and man were Jack Reece and Ralph Haines. They were supported by Mrs. O. G. McGlone as reader, Mrs. Tom Hill, Miss Delpha Ross, Miss Virginia Thompson, George Daniels, Alan Longacre, Gene Reece, Charles Likens, Miss Phyllis Longacre, Miss Joy McGlone and children from the primary and junior departments.

Special musical numbers included: a song, "Open the Gates of the Temple," by Miss Naomi Clouse, music instructor in Cincinnati; song, "The Holy City," by Miss Evelyn Hipsher, music student at Otterbein college; song, "Calvary," by Dale Post, student at Ohio State; duet numbers, "Alone" and "God's Tomorrow," by Mrs. Warren Reece and Mrs. Alan Longacre; song, "I Find No Fault in Him" by Claude Likens; and a song, "Were You There," by a male quartet, Claude and Vernal Likens, Lester Mason and Dale Post. Accompaniment was by Mrs. Lester Mason, church organist, and Miss Hipsher directed congregational singing.

The pageant was written and directed by Mrs. Melvin Keeran, who also prepared the background scenery, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Forest Hipsher and son, Raymond, Harold Kightlinger and Melvin Keeran, pastor. The offering will be used for missionary purposes.

At the morning service, children of the junior and intermediate departments sang, "Christ, the Lord Is Risen Today," and Mr. Keeran spoke on "The Risen Christ." Baptismal services followed.

HERBERT CANCELS SPEECH

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 9—Gov. Thodas J. Herbert canceled a speech at Norwalk last night in favor of taking to bed to overcome a bad cold. The governor was to have addressed the 41st annual McKinley day banquet. Yesterday Herbert made a brief talk at Lockbourne Army Air Base before his physician advised him to rest.

Tired, 'All-In'—Listless Feeling Brought To Halt

As Vibrant Energy is Released To Every Muscle, Fibre, Cell

Do you get up in the mornings still tired, feel down-and-out all day? Have you checked-up on your blood strength lately? Overwork, undue worry, cold, flu or other illness often wears down the red-blood-cells.

Every day—every hour—millions of tiny red-blood-cells must pour forth from the marrow of your bones to replace those that are worn-out. A low blood count may affect you in several ways: no appetite, underweight, no energy, a run-down condition, lack of resistance to infection and disease.

To get real relief you must keep up your blood strength. Medical authorities, by analysis of the blood, have by positive proof shown that 888 Tonic is amazingly effective in building up low blood strength in non-organic nutritional anemia. This is due to the 888 Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, 888 Tonic helps you enjoy the food you eat by increasing the gastric digestive juice when it is non-organically too little or scanty—thus the stomach will have little cause to get balky with gas, bloat and give off that sour food taste.

Don't wait! Energize your body with rich, red-blood. Start on 888 Tonic now. As vigorous blood surges throughout your whole body, greater freshness and strength should make you eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better, have a healthy color glow in your skin—firm flesh fill out hollow places. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle from your drug store. 888 Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

REECE SAYS G.O.P. PRESIDENT NEEDED

Only Way To Stamp Out Communism, He Believes.

By The Associated Press

NORWALK, O., April 9—Carroll Reece, national Republican party chairman, says "the only way in which the American people can stamp out the influence of Communists and other radicals is by the election of a Republican president next year."

In an address last night at the 41st annual Huron county McKinley club banquet, Reece accused President Truman of "failure to cooperate in a program of reducing federal expenditures, reduction of personal income taxes, enactment of comprenensive and realistic laws dealing with labor-management problems and extermination of radical influences which have been poisoning our system of government."

Reece asserted President Truman had not kept his "promise of cooperation" with congress on the measures.

Gov. Thomas J. Herbert was forced to cancel his appearance at the banquet because of an influenza attack.

"However," Reece asserted, "there is one phase of the Republican program on which Mr Truman has gone through the motions of cooperation. That relates to the Republican promise to drive out Communists and fellow travelers who have been allowed to insinuate themselves into the federal government service under the Democratic administration."

Here's Where YOU Come In On Current High Prices Discussion

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON, April 9—Here's where YOU come in on all this talk about high prices.

Your cost of living has gone up 33 per cent since 1939.

That's why every housewife knows the meaning behind President Truman's appeals to businessmen to cut prices.

The President is so worried about prices now that he called a special cabinet meeting today to talk about them.

James Marlow

He has reason to be worried. So do you. We're having a real inflation, you may not like the word. But that's it.

You may not like to hear this, either, but it is what's beginning to scare some businessmen and government officials.

Unless prices start coming down we may have a "recession." That's a pretty word, "recession." It's fancy for "depression."

Once Started, Hard to Stop

A recession may start by being only a mild depression but, once it starts, no one can tell when it will plunge into a real depression.

Sound gloomy? Maybe so. But that's where we stand at this minute: We have inflation and may have a recession.

This will show you just how real the inflation is by showing you what happened to your living costs since World War II start in August, 1939.

Between August, 1939, and June, 1946, the cost of living rose 33 per cent.

But that was only a 33 per cent rise in six years and eight months.

In the next eight months—between June, 1946, and February, 1947—living costs jumped another 20 per cent, or 53 per cent above August, 1939.

Living costs hit that 53 per cent mark last December. They've stayed there. They're there now.

OPA's Death Felt

Why the terrific jump between June, 1946, and February, 1947? Because in that time OPA all but died and almost all price controls went out the window.

Businessmen wanted it that way. So did a lot of congressmen. Businessmen, great believers in "free enterprise," said this:

Take controls of. We'll produce goods. We'll compete with one another for customers. We'll have to cut prices to get customers.

It sounded good. But it didn't happen. Businesses jacked up their prices and they've kept them there.

This isn't true of all businessmen. Ford, Plymouth, International Harvester and some others—but not many—have cut prices in an attempt to get other businessmen to follow them.

Few have followed. Last Saturday President Truman asked businessmen not to "go whole hog for profits."

He said that if they don't stop being hungry for profits, this will happen:

People will stop buying. Which will mean business will have to cut down on the amount of goods it produces. In turn, that will mean men thrown out of jobs. Then we'll have the recession.

Afraid to Cut Prices

A lot of businessmen complain now they're afraid to cut prices because they don't know what wage demands the big unions will make.

(A number of big unions are bargaining now, or getting ready to bargain, for higher wages.)

But the other side of that argument is: the higher prices stay the higher wages labor will demand.

This whole problem has become so serious that R. H. Macy and Company, in last Sunday's New York Times, bought a full page advertisement to appeal to business everywhere to cut prices.

Winding up, the ad said: "Macy's does not believe a recession is inevitable" if businessmen will get together to cut prices.

The next day the New York Times made a nationwide survey of key cities and found people were beginning to stop buying because prices are too high.

Mrs. Forest Hipsher was elected secretary to succeed Mrs. McGlone, who recently resigned.

The Guild of the church will have an all-day meeting Thursday at the church with a potluck dinner at noon. The Friendship class will meet Saturday night with Mrs. Glen Miller.

Henry Ford

HENRY FORD is dead. The news sounds improbable. The master of mass production had seemed timeless.

Of course he wasn't. He only had seemed that way because at 83 he had been part of so many different events and trends that scarcely anything in the experience of other living men could be dissociated from the impact of his extraordinarily full life.

He made automobiles available to the masses by devising a way to make them at a price the masses could afford. At the same time, he lifted the living standards of those who were going to buy vehicles the common man could afford by giving workers in his plants higher wages. Labor unions have yet to produce one idea which has done as much for workingmen as Henry Ford's base wage of $5 a day in the 20's.

There are those who believe that in the ultimate evaluation of what we are pleased to call American civilization, Henry Ford's methods of industrialism will be one of a half dozen or so things for which the United States will be remembered. They make this judgment because they believe he was the first man to comprehend the potentialities of a free society, without class distinctions. They are strengthened in it because Mr. Ford's span of mature years stretched across six decades of experience with this new enterprise system, from its feeble beginning in the late 19th century to its great climax in World War II.

Henry Ford was an optimist. He believed men had infinite capabilities for improving their lot. He built his own career and made a vast deal of the history of his times by acting on that belief. He was one of the Great Americans.

Unsafe for Organized Labor

THE leading competitor in the standing contest to discover new talking points for organized labor's boss bargainers is John L. Lewis. The reason for his prestige has just been made evident again.

With scarcely more than a flick of a cigar ash, he has added "Unsafe for organized labor" to the arsenal of collective bargaining weapons. The government, which proved recently to Mr. Lewis that he couldn't conduct a work stoppage against it, is now confronted with the fact that thousands of miners are not mining coal because he says some mines are unsafe.

In other words, Mr. Lewis is conducting a work stoppage of a certain kind on a talking point of safety. No matter what gentle phrases or generous thoughts may be applied to the matter, this is a vivid demonstration of Mr. Lewis' personal power. Coal mines did not, after all, become unsafe this month, this year, or even this century.

Other labor leaders always have been quick to flatter Mr. Lewis with imitation whenever he came out with a good idea. The sitdown strike, which he thought up; the welfare fund, which he perfected; portal-to-portal pay—these are monuments to his ingenuity.

Pickets soon will be carrying signs—"This Place Unsafe for Organized Labor." John L. Lewis, the winner of his latest brush with the government and still the champion of all the slogan-makers and idea-designers, has added something new to collective bargaining issues.

The Cassandras Have It

WALTER LIPPMANN, in the gloomiest of many gloomy forecasts about the postwar shape of things, says economic collapse in Europe is imminent and that Great Britain is on the brink of disaster now. He warns that the United States must face the Soviet Union alone on Europe's battlefields, unless unprecedented measures are taken.

"To prevent the crisis which will otherwise engulf Europe and spread chaos through the world," Lippmann declares, "the measures will have to be very large—in Europe no less than an economic union, and over here no less than the equivalent of a revival of lend-lease."

The source of so much gloom, which could be relieved only by measures not likely to be taken, is presumably Lippmann's own information about Europe, which can't be disputed. But it is tempting to wonder about the possible relation between mood and conclusion. The mood of the American people is gloomy. The outlook is dyspeptic. If the atom bomb doesn't get us, something else will....

Disintegration of Europe is only a detail in the economic morbidity of the times, another job of evidence that the knell of doom is overdue. The Cassandras have the floor, and suddenly their prophecies of evil all seem believable. Europe is going, going, going and nothing can be done about it. Armagedden will follow in due time.

Still, this is a nation of violent extremes. After World War I, Europe had been redeemed and made safe for democracy. We were wrong about that. We could be wrong again. A mood of despondency could be coloring conclusions—even the conclusions of Walter Lippmann.

Truman's Economic Doctrine Needs Correction.

WASHINGTON, April 9—The Truman doctrine of economics was clearly presented in his speech to the administration Democrats here on Jefferson day.

The Republicans were sputteringly angry about it, yet their economists did not rush forward at once to take it apart. Perhaps it left them befuddled because it said all the proper popular phrases—the phrases which enabled them to win the last campaign—yet it reached a peculiar conclusion from these same phrases, in fact a conclusion exactly opposite the Republican. Indeed, from an objective economic standpoint, the whole Truman doctrine must have seemed confusing, if not confused, to any student of economy, guided only by normal powers of logic.

Mr. Truman strongly defended the American system of free competitive enterprise, for instance he said: "Under that system each man is free to go where he likes, to follow the calling of his choice and (mark you this is the economic keynote) to be rewarded in proportion to the productivity of the effort or the property he contributes," in short, under free enterprise he is entitled to reward for his labors.

Yet just as stoutly, Mr. Truman advocated debt reduction instead of tax reduction. His whole reasoning along this line was founded on the assumption that these were the alternatives—debt reduction or tax reduction. He did not want any tax reduction but only debt reduction. Of course these are not the alternatives by any means.

Premise Also False

The Republicans actually propose a far greater debt reduction than Mr. Truman provided in his budget along with a tax reduction he did not provide. While the President thus says any other proposal except his would lead the nation into what he calls "a false economy," his premise is obviously false.

Even so, any logical student of economics must be struck at once and quite hard by the contrasts of the President's own statements, right or wrong. In the first place, he says the free enterprise he champions provides reward for effort in production, extra reward of course, for extra effort. But the wartime taxes he wishes to perpetuate until he decides he can run the government for less than $37,500,000,000 a year actually take 20 per cent of the net income of everyone earning "not over $2,000 a year"; 38 per cent on anyone earning $10,000 and 89 per cent over $100,000. This is hardly reward for effort by any objective reasoning. The government actually takes 50 per cent of any man's earnings between $16,000 and $18,000 a year. This man must work six months a year for the federal government, and six months a year for himself (and to pay the rest of his taxes aside from these income rates.)

The contradiction in his reasoning becomes more apparent the deeper you go into the matter. The free enterprise system functions exclusively on the use of money. The more you make the more you spend. If everyone makes a small income, then the entire nation is poor. Furthermore those who make a special success of their business contribute most to economic success, (furnishing employment, more buying, more capital, more investment.) Now $18,000 is a rather small return on a privately owned business, but the man who risks his capital, deals with unions, fights economic resistance and all that in order to make it, must work 50 per cent of his time for Mr. Truman.

Burden Falls Heaviest

But you may fall into delusion by saying, how many men are successful enough to make $18,000 a year. All right, take the small man with "not over $2,000 annual income." It is a far greater burden on the economy for him to pay Mr. Truman one fifth of his annual labor, than it may be for a man making over $100,000 to pay 89 per cent. Yet from a strictly economic standpoint of furnishing the indispensable generative forces in a free enterprise economy, it is the man earning over $100,000 a year whose earnings may make or break the system, because he is the developer of new enterprises, new employment. If all together are permitted to earn 20 to 30 per cent more by a tax reduction, the effect of their generative force on the economy may actually bring greater tax revenues from lower rates, to say nothing of avoiding economically dangerous wage increases.

To cap strange wandering beyond the field of reasonable logic, Mr. Truman says inflation will follow unless his course is followed. But in the very same speech he warns of prices which have gotten out of hand, inflated prices (—an inflation—) which are already here, and are being met with difficulty by the average wage earner.

No one seems to know who is writing or contributing guiding thoughts to Mr. Truman's speeches. But a search to ascertain his economic adviser will certainly be started, because that person is certainly an unusual man.

Take Your Pick—Bat Or Baton

The management of the New York Yankees is considering featuring classical music on play-by-play broadcasts of their games.

That'll be the first symphony in history called in the tenth on account of darkness.

I may be wrong, but I doubt that music lovers will appreciate their favorite selections being interrupted for the flash that DiMaggio has grounded out to third, retiring the side.

On the other hand, baseball fans may well complain that it sounds like the old Abbott and Costello routine with Brahms at bat and Beethoven on third.

Still, it will be a novelty. And as such doubtless will have appeal to that considerable segment of the population which doesn't know a philharmonic from a fielder's choice.

Of course, the uninitiated will have difficulty deciding: Is that the moaning of the woodwinds.... or the bleachers booing the ump?

Vetoes and Democrats

THREE bills on their way to President Truman's desk may reopen the presidential veto issue. They are the portal-to-portal, tax reduction and strike control bills.

Mr. Truman seems to be aiming at a new veto record, although it is unlikely any executive ever will match the all-time high total of vetoes reached by Franklin D. Roosevelt. He used his presidential veto power 631 times. Including Mr. Truman's 84 vetoes since he took office April 12, 1945, the presidential veto power has been used 1,641 times.

Early presidents, convinced that Congress should be given the benefit of a doubt, used their veto power sparingly. The precedent for using the veto power to join an issue of policy was set by Andrew Jackson, first president to veto a bill merely because he disagreed with it. Sole reason assigned for disapproval before Jackson was the constitutionality of the legislation.

After Jackson, another Democratic president, Grover Cleveland revealed a determination to inflict his personal judgment on government by means of his veto power; he was the first executive to make frequent use of the veto. In fact, Cleveland averaged more vetoes a year than the all-time record holder, Mr. Roosevelt.

Three of President Truman's vetoes in 1946 were obviously over disagreement with policy—the Case bill, the first OPA bill and the tidelands oil bill. The legislative branch also has powers which can be used to thwart executive policies. For example, the Senate's decisions about treaties and presidential appointments are irrevocable.

In the Government Reorganization Act of 1945, Congress provided itself with authority to veto orders by the chief executive for realignments of federal bureaus and departments.

Warsaw Most-Blitzed City

WHAT is the most completely war-ravaged of Europe's great cities? Travelers who have seen them all say Warsaw was hardest hit by wars fury.

Despite the bombs that rained on London, St. Paul's, the Houses of Parliament, Nelson's Column and most other landmarks were undamaged. Cologne, although blasted time after time by Allied bombers, still has its magnificent cathedral. The great Gothic cathedrals of France still stand, and while Berlin paid a heavy price, it should be remembered that its cultural development was relatively recent date. Even so, Berlin still has its Potsdam Palace, Sans Souci and the Brandenburger Tor.

Warsaw's case is different. Gone is every last one of her medieval landmarks, every baroque church, every rococo palace. Scarcely a building was left standing. The destruction of Warsaw was carried out with Teutonic precision according to a detailed plan.

For the Poles the Nazis nurtured an especially intense hatred and to them Warsaw was the symbol of everything Polish. Raked by Dornier bombers in September, 1939, and pounded by four panzer divisions during the uprising of the populace in the summer of 1944, Warsaw was subjected to yet a third wave of destruction before the Germans yielded it to the Red Army. Trained crews of arsonists put street after street, district after district, to the torch.

A new Warsaw is rising, but it will not be the city of Canaletto's paintings, not the city Chopin knew, not the city where Paderewski spent his youth. That is gone forever.

Largest Organ

Asked to name the body's largest organ, most of us would say the liver. We'd be wrong; it's the skin, with about 16 per cent of the total body weight. This and other information about our protective integument, particularly its permeability by various substances, is contained in a recent article in Physiological Reviews. Considering the fact that dermatitis is the most common condition for which workmen's compensation is awarded, this fundamental information would seem to have considerable industrial importance.—O. # The American Interest

By STEWART ALSOP

(The following dispatch from Jerusalem is of particular interest, in view of recent events in Washington. No disclosure has as yet been made, but in the past fortnight the administration has rather glumly accepted the probable necessity of constructive American action looking towards solution in Palestine. The first steps have been taken to prepare for bi-partisan action. Joseph Alsop)

JERUSALEM, April 9—It is probable to the point of certainty that a Palestine settlement is being discussed in Moscow by Secretary of State George C. Marshall and British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin. Having made up its mind about Greece and Turkey, the United States must now make up its mind about Palestine and the rest of the Middle East. And after making up its mind, the United States must take part in the settlement considered most desirable.

Some notion of the position Bevin is taking can be gleaned from the attitude of responsible British officials here. Together with the vast majority of Jews, almost every British official has become convinced that only partition, with all its disadvantages, offers any hope of a quick and lasting settlement. But one high official went further. He stated his flat opinion that if the United States should offer to share the political and economic responsibility for the partition of Palestine, the British government would agree, would withdraw its appeal from the United Nations and would be prepared to proceed with partition. Whether Mr. Bevin's proposals to General Marshall are taking precisely this form or not, it is virtually certain that the British position will call for a shared American responsibility in Palestine as a prerequisite for settlement.

Britain's Advantage

The British can no longer afford to pay the piper here. But they can always decide to withdraw completely from Palestine with potentially catastrophic implications for the whole of American foreign policy. To that extent they can call the tune, and in a polite way, they know it.

Thus the United States is faced with the same basic decision which confronted it in Greece and Turkey; to put up or shut up. In a sense, the decision has already been made, for it is clearly difficult to put up in Greece or Turkey, and at the same time to shut up in Palestine and in the Middle East. Thus the task of American policy makers is to attempt to weed out the luxuriant mass of conflicting moral and political claims and reach a level-headed conception of the real interest of the United States in this area. The most obvious American interest seems certainly a firm, final and above all immediate settlement. For as long as Palestine continues in its present turmoil, the waters throughout the Arab world will be troubled and the opportunity to fish in them will be most inviting. It also seems increasingly obvious that only an immediate partition of some sort could provide such an immediate settlement.

Pair of Fallacies

Other proposals are based on two false premises: First, that an agreed settlement between Jews and Arabs is possible, now clearly demonstrated as visionary; second, that a functioning state can ever be built on the foundation of two large population blocks, whose political objectives and social systems are exactly contradictory.

All but those Jews on the extreme right or the extreme left—the terrorists and revisionists on the one hand, and the Hashomer Hatzair and the Communists, on the other—are prepared to accept the principle of partition. The exact boundaries of the partitioned states would be the subject of immensely difficult negotiations. It seems certain, however, that any rational Jewish state would have to include a large Arab minority.

That is the basis of the Arab case; and it is silly and unfair to deny that the Arabs have a case. But in purely political terms, it is important to make an assessment of the depth and extent of the Arabs' reaction, not only in Palestine but throughout the Arab and Moslem world, in the face of the evident Soviet ambition to turn the Middle East into a Soviet bailiwick.

Myth Blown Up

The persistent myth that opposition to the creation of a Jewish state in Palestine is confined to effendis and pashas has been repeatedly exploded. For example, in Robert Nathan's study of Palestine and in the report of the Anglo-American commission, neither certainly is unfriendly to the Zionist cause. The report of the Anglo - American commission states: "So bare an outline gives only an inadequate picture of the passion with which Arabs in Palestine and in neighboring countries resent the invasion of Palestine by a people which, though originally Semitic, now represents an alien civilization. Even the Moslems of India made representations to the committee in opposition to Zionism."

This passionate Arab opposition is a fact, and blithely to disregard it as a political factor would be certainly idiotic. The extraordinary Zionist achievement in Palestine is also a fact and until the Jews are given some chance to bring that achievement to fulfillment, there will be no peace here.

Among the many little things rising from time to time to prove what screwball attitudes are taken toward law enforcement, consider the postoffice ban which prohibits a newspaper from informing the people of another state, through the mails, of a sweepstake drawing....while the radio stations are broadcasting names, addresses and winnings to every state in the union.

After reading how a 44-passenger Diesel engine city bus was driven from New York to Florida, despite police alarms, without being reported by a single cop anywhere has caused us to abandon the idea of asking police help in locating a missing bicycle.

Spring Fever

By TRUMAN TWILL

There is no such thing as spring fever. All that happens is this:

One day there is a silver flash where the brooklet is running through a meadow turning green...and a crocus has thrust up its petals in the center of a patch of brown earth.

A cardinal is whistling at his sweetiepie from the crown of an oak tree...and somewhere down below a boy and a girl are holding hands a little tighter than usual.

The wind quits, cutting like a knife and bestows, instead, a fragrant kiss on the world's careworn brow...and the tender little leaves decide the time has come to shed their brown wrappers.

A colt in a pasture tosses its head and challenges its shadow to a race to the far fence and in a city apartment an old man sits in front of an open window and longs for his boyhood on the farm.

Shafts of bright sunlight purify the fetid gutters and sweeten the dank earth...and a mother tenderly bruises a child's shining curls and sends him off to school.

Trays of downy chicks are pulsating in the hatcheries and halfway up the old maple in the side yard there is beginning to be a nest of robins.

The new lambs are stumbling awkwardly behind their mothers...and a customer is eyeing the lines of a convertible roadster in matching shades of blue.

There is the odor of oil soap, wallpaper cleaner and fresh paint in the residential neighborhoods.. and the kids are hunting for the skipping ropes, marbles, jacks and baseball gloves they put away a year ago.

The postman whistles on his daily rounds and so do the milkman, the breadman, junkman, the man who reads the meters, and the man who keeps the world supplied with new brushes.

Winter coats look shabby, winter hats look work-stained.. and householders get busy with brooms and hoses to clean up steps and sidewalks.

Daffodils stand shyly in sheltered places, there is the rumble of roller-skating, a whisper of springtime, a half-heard note of laughter, the caress of a hand, the fleeting memory of something that happened long ago...but no such thing as spring fever.

Pull up a chair, pal, and make yourself comfortable while we discuss at further length what really happens that makes a human being suddenly become not worth the oil to boil him alive.

Old Plantation Finds New Cash Crop—Flowers

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Writer

CAPE FEAR, N. C., April 9—The "Young Massa" is finding financial salvation for one of the South's most famous plantation gardens.

Kenneth Sprunt hopes that the flowers which for decades have made the glory of old Orton plantation on Cape Fear will provide the first profitable cash crop since the Civil war.

The 15,000-acre plantation is more than 200 years old but hasn't paid its way since its vast rice fields lost out to lower-cost producers in other states during the reconstruction period.

Sprunt, 26-year-old Coast Guard veteran, thinks its millions of massed camellia, azalea and daffodil blooms will make the old mansion again profitable to operate. He's gone into a full-scale nursery business.

"May Amount to Something"

"We're just right brand new in this," he said with pleasant caution. "Eventually I think it's going to amount to something."

Orton is one of the old south's real remaining showplaces. Situated on a bluff overlooked the Cape Fear river and a thousand acres of abandoned rice paddies, the big white house has a romantic history older than the United States.

Roger Moore, called "King Roger" for his regal manner, built it in 1725 after an Indian tribe burned down an earlier smaller home. Moore later saw the Indians whooping and bating on "sugar loaf" sandbluff across the river, organized a band of plantation owners and slaves and ambushed the Indians, wiping out the tribe.

Imperious "King Roger" lies buried in an old brick crypt in the planation graveyard sheltered by great moss-hung oaks. A later owner who went bankrupt was buried secretly in another cemetery so his creditors wouldn't seize the body to force payment of his debts from friends.

Some Razed in Civil War

Some Cape Fear plantations were razed during the Civil war by Federal troops.

"The Yankees didn't burn Orton because they were using it for a small pox hospital," said Kenneth.

Now he's shipping camellias in quantity by air to Yankee florists in Boston and New York at a dollar apiece.

The plantation has been in the family for three generations. Sprunt's grandmother first created Orton's famous gardens—five thousand visitors paid $1 each last year to view them—and his father, a cotton broker, extended them. The nursery began operating on a commercial basis in a small way during the depression.

"Now we have eight to ten acres of gardens, twelve acres of daffodils and ten acres of camellia plants," said Sprunt.

Sell for $6 Each

The 84,000 camellia plants now rooted sell for $3 to $6 apiece and bloom in three to four years. Sprunt also has some 140,000 azalea cuttings.

The entire plantation once supported 50 slaves. Twenty Negro descendants now work in the nursery.

Young Sprunt loves Orton's traditions and wants to see it grow from the dryout of its economic blight to a new greatness based on the wealth long-hidden in its flowers.

"I like it here—wouldn't trade places with any man," he said. "Next year I hope to see a lot of black in the ledger instead of red."

YOUR HEALTH
By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

Facial Paralysis

The one-sided paralysis of the face, known as Bell's palsy is a much more common ailment than most people realize. It may be due to a disease or accident, but by far the most common cause is exposure of the side of the face to a draft of cold air, as in driving.

It has been estimated that 75 per cent of the cases due to cold recover even without treatment. Drs. H. P. Pickerill and C. M. Pickerill of New Zealand, state that the other 25 per cent end up with permanently paralyzed muscles and real disfigurement.

Since it is impossible to say in advance who will recover and who will not, it is important that all those with Bell's palsy be given proper treatment. The chief thing which interferes with recovery of the paralyzed muscles is their continued overstretching by the normal muscles on the opposite side of the face.

In order to keep this overstretching from occurring it is suggested that the face muscles be strapped. In doing this, the lower half of the paralyzed side is first covered with t thin layer of oil or petrolatum. Then two strips of adhesive tape about half an inch wide are applied on the opposite side of the face starting at about the level of the lip. These adhesive straps are then brought around to the opposite side and fastened back of the ear. This tape is not removed until the condition is overcome. If it becomes soiled, fresh adhesive tape can be applied over it. At the end of a week or ten days the patient attempts to make movements of the paralyzed side of his face.

Massage and exercise often do no good because this may result in overstretching of the affected muscle. At the end of the third week if it does not look as if the patient is recovering, the muscles may be stimulated with a weak electrical current. However, this must not be overdone since it will cause tiring of the muscles. If the current causes any painful sensation, it is too strong. This treatment is carried out daily. It may be necessary to carry out the treatment for a period of two to three months, although some patients may recover within a week.

Bell's palsy may be produced by injuries or by tumors. Of course, in such cases surgical treatment may be needed.

PRELUDE TO A PERMANENT PEACE

Army Day—April 7—is of great importance to every peace-loving American. It proclaims our determination, as a nation, to remain a power for peace. It offers to us, as individuals, opportunities to share in this vital cause.

Preparing the way for permanent peace calls for strong men and strong nations. It is imperative that America retain certain basic military forces until international co-operation and understanding can be assured.

Our War Department offers four ways in which you may serve. It may be either in the Regular Army, the National Guard of the United States, the Organized Reserve Corps, or the Reserve Officers Training Corps. Only when these have been built up to full peacetime strength will this nation be afforded an adequate degree of protection.

On Army Day you will have a chance to review these great military organizations. You will see young men who are making known through action their determination for sound and lasting peace. You can do your part by supporting their vital program in your community.

Morrow, Crawford Co. Farms Show Benefits of Conservation

...s in Morrow and Crawford counties were chosen as ex... of what soil conservation means in farm and community ... by Dr. Hugh H. Bennett, chief, U. S. department of agri... soil conservation service, ... he spoke recently at a ...siness men's dinner in ...

... farms are those of Roland ... west of Cardington; ... Belt of Edison, whose farm ... the Marion-Morrow coun... and Fred Gehret of Whet... ...ship in Crawford coun... Davis and Mr. Belt are ...ors in the Headwaters Soil ...ation District and Mr. ...s cooperating with the ... Soil Conservation District. ... Bennett prefaced his re... on the local farms with a ... a picture of the nationwide ...for soil and water conser... and the steps taken when ... desire to organize soil ...ation districts in coopera... tion with the U. S. soil conservation service.

"I could stand here all evening relating 'success stories' from individual farmers in Ohio and elsewhere," Dr. Bennett asserted, and then discussed the three local farms.

"Take the case of the Roland P. Davis farm west of Cardington, in the flat land, Miami-Brookston soils area typical of western Morrow and eastern Marion counties.

Bought Farm in 1941

"Mr. Davis bought the 79-acre farm in 1941 under the Farm Security Administration plan, and the same year worked out his complete soil conservation plan. Today, he reports that the farm, on which the original total loan for purchase and improvement was $5,170, is worth at least $12,000—more than double—and that the original inventory of machinery and so on has increased from $1,509 in 1941 to $10,012 in 1947. Mr. Davis' gross income in 1941 was only $1,242, whereas, in 1946 it was $4,859—almost a 400 per cent increase. His milk income alone jumped from $615 in 1941 to $3,642 in 1946, reflecting more milk cows and the proper utilization of the increased roughage produced on the farm through the benefit of complete soil conservation.

"I'll grant you that increase in prices accounts for part of this farmer's additional income—but prices haven't increased that much, you'll agree. The other day Mr. Davis remarked that his hay production has increased at least two and a half times, and that his corn yields, after two years of sod, have gone up 25 bushels an acre. He doesn't even have barn room now for his hay, and is planning to build a silo to handle the extra forage. Among the many benefits he has reaped from his soil conservation farming has been the solving of a drainage problem on the north end of his farm, as a result of plowing under two-year-old sods least three fields stayed wet until late in the season, and midsummer rains frequently drowned out standing crops. Since the inclusion of the high-quality meadow in the rotation, the present tile drainage system is adequate except for a few low spots needing additional tile. Mr. Gehret consistently gets from 90 to 100 bushels of corn to the acre as compared with the average 50 to 60 bushel yields in the neighborhood; and his hay yields have increased from 1½ tons or less an acre to 4 and 5 tons an acre."

Contributes to Security

"The way in which soil conservation has contributed to Mr. Davis' security, and to that of the community in which he does business, is amply reflected, I think, in the fact that from the increased income of the farm he has been able to put in a milking parlor, milk cooler, milking machine, water system, electricity, and the farm machinery he needed. There you have better living, and better income for the Davis family and better business for the townsmen with whom he trades.

"Scott Belt of Edison has a 53-acre, tile-drained farm near the Headwaters and Marion County Soil Conservation District line, in the flat land, Crosby-Brookston soils area. As a result of changing from a three-year rotation to a four-year rotation, with two years of hay, under his soil conservation plan written in 1942, Mr. Belt reports he is not using his land as hard as formerly, and has been able to produce at least three times as much hay, while increasing his milk cows from five to 15. His corn yield has gone up by a third, which he credits to the humus added by the two years of grass. He also says his drainage is much more effective now than it used to be.

"Down in Crawford county, in the Divide Soil Conservation District, Fred Gehret of Whetstone township revised the rotation on his father's 107-acre farm when he took over its operation five years ago so as to have a five-year rotation consisting of corn two years with ryegrass; sweetclover seeded in the corn at the last cultivation; a year of grain; and two years of alfalfa-Ladino-bromegrass meadow. Formerly, at

MORE POWER SOUGHT FOR GALION PLANTS

Special to The Star

GALION, April 9—In an effort to seek more power for the city plants, Galion industrialists met Tuesday night at City Hall with Mayor William Amann and members of Council. Approximately 100 businessmen, leaders of industry, civic leaders and citizens attended the meeting.

After a discussion of nearly five hours Mayor Amann appointed Fred Sautter, William Barr and Richard Ganshorn, council members, together with Robert L. Moulton, Russell Post and H. Yunker to meet with three manufacturers who will be announced later by the industrialists to consider the issue of more money for Galion plants.

Representatives of industry had asked Mayor Amann to postpone purchase of a diesel auxiliary unit for the Galion Municipal Light and Power plant until further investigation of power needs was made.

The manufacturers told the mayor and council representatives that more power is needed immediately for their plants in order to make planned expansion of industry, suggesting that the city give them permission to connect with an outside power company, and offering to sign a contract with a power company to furnish power only while the city is making installation of equipment at the Galion Municipal Light and Power plant.

Mayor Amann together with other spokesmen explained that the city's light plant will furnish the additional power when new equipment is installed. The mayor also stated that purchase of the new diesel had already been placed in the hands of the board of control.

Program To Hike Local Funds Takes Form in Ohio's House

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 9—A program to increase local government funds $7,500,000 a year and open the door for additional revenue through a locally-levied consumers utility tax took form in the Ohio house today.

Leaders at a night meeting agreed on a dozen measures which they said would be pushed as a means of increasing the $21,000,000 now available for local governments to $22,500,000 a year.

Taxation committee members said they would complete open hearings today and start sessions, from which witnesses will be barred, in an effort to bring the program to the house floor next week for prompt consideration.

Methods Detailed

Here's how local governments would get the $28,500,000.

Add $1,500,000 to the $10,500,000 already appropriated this year from sales taxes; allocate to counties of origin the $13,000,000 collected annually by the state from the levy on bank deposits and dealers in intangibles, permit local assessment of the state-collected amusement admissions tax which approximates $3,000,000, and turn over the state's half of the cigaret dealers license tax to local governments, or about $500,000.

Local governments would get $9,000,000 less from sales taxes annually, it was explained, but would receive an additional $16,500,000 from other sources.

The state supreme court has held municipalities could not share the utility tax field with the state but house members said permission for a tax on consumers' utility bills could be given.

A section of the program was designed to provide more equitable distribution of inheritance taxes, of which the state keeps half. It would provide that the other half go to cities where the deceased lived, or to counties if residence was outside city limits.

Would Return All Revenue

Although the state now keeps half the cigaret dealers' license fees, under the new plan it would return all revenue on the basis of 75 per cent to the city, village or township where collected and the other 25 per cent to counties.

Other provisions of the program included:

Removal of the requirement that districts reach the 10-mill tax limitation in order to receive additional school aid. Legislators asserted the limitations tended to keep tax valuations low.

Return to county budget commissions the right to determine how much sub-divisions should receive from the general tax returns on the basis of need.

Limit issuance of assessment bonds to one-third the total valuation of property assessed.

Prohibit issuance of bonds for improvements inside the 10-mill tax limitation.

MYSTERY OF COLLYER ENDS

Police Find Missing Recluse's Body Buried Beneath Debris.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 9—The finding of Langley Collyer's body amid the filth and squalor of the once fashionable home he shared with his blind brother Homer left the long-provocative Collyer legend just about finished today.

There will be an autopsy to determine the cause of death—but police held little doubt the 61-year-old recluse, whose rat-gnawed body was found late yesterday, had been the victim of one of his own booby-traps, rigged to tumble heavy junk on an intruder.

Still uncertain was the source of a telephone message to police that led to the finding of the body of Homer Collyer, 65, in the house March 21. Police found the one-time admiralty lawyer in the same room in which Langley died—possibly while taking food to the blind brother.

Between the times of the two macabre discoveries, 120 tons of junk, filth and oddities had been removed from the house.

Langley's body was wedged between a wooden dresser and iron bookcase which evidently had supported the heavy debris that had fallen on the body.

"This only bears out what the police thought all along—that Collyer was caught as the victim of one of his own booby traps," said Police Commissioner Arthur W. Wallander.

Homer had died only nine feet away—partly from malnutrition.

The Collyer brothers were reared in a prosperous, old and cultivated family, the sons of Dr. Herman Livingston Collyer, a gynecologist who died in 1923, and Mrs. Susie Gage Collyer, who died in 1929. About that time the brothers began to shun society.

The finding of 14 pianos in the cluttered house indicated that in early years the brothers were not miserly with their fortune, recently valued by the family attorney, John R. McMullen, at around $100,000.

In later years, however, Langley was said to have walked miles to find a bargain on his nocturnal prowlings for food for himself and Homer, who became blind in 1933. Much of the trash which filled the house was brought back by Langley from these missions.

FIND SECOND COLLYER BODY. Apparently the victim of one of his own fantastic "booby traps," Langley Collyer, 61-year-old recluse, was found dead in the old Collyer mansion after police had searched for him for 18 days. The body was found buried under piles of junk not far from the spot police found the body of his brother, Homer, March 31. 2. The United States is willing to agree to French demands for the Saar, but within present limits and thus without the enlargement of the area which France would control.

3. German areas which Poland now is "administering" under the Potsdam agreement, including East Prussia, Upper Silesia and northeast Pomerania, should be given fully to Poland, but the agricultural lands immediately east of the Oder and the Neisse river lines should be in some degree, at least, restored to Germany, to give Germany more balance in her economy.

4. The Ruhr and the Rhineland, for which the French have been demanding separate regimes, should be retained in Germany, but with provision, as explained for some more or less permanent international administration or supervision of the resources.

5. Other German boundary rectifications requested by the smaller nations should be fully studied. Probably some will be agreed to.

The Russians were expected to oppose revision of Poland's western frontier as it would stand under permanent adoption of the administrative area outlined at Potsdam.

Ohio House Scans Two Methods Of Paying Vet Bonus

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 9—Members of the house military affairs subcommittee today reported they were considering two means of financing a bonus for Ohio veterans of World War II, including a one per cent gross sales tax without exemptions.

The subcommittee, by a vote of 9 to 5, today was instructed to report to the committee complete bonus recommendations next Wednesday afternoon.

A second means of financing a bonus, the subcommittee members said, was a series of gallonage taxes—including $1 on whisky, 50-cents on wine and 10-cents on beer, plus a one-cent cigaret tax.

The sales tax, said subcommittee members, would bring in between $40,000,000 and $50,000,000 a year, while the gallonage taxes would reap about $33,000,000 annually.

Agreements reached by the subcommittee in a partial report include the following:

The bonus would apply on service between Dec. 7, 1941 and Sept. 2, 1945, including rank of captain. The merchant marines would be excluded. The last filing date for a bonus would be July 1, 1950. Cost of a $400 maximum and $50 minimum bonus would be $400,000,000 including interest, and the bonus could not be financed by a tax on real estate.

MURDERED MIAMI WOMAN IDENTIFIED BY HUSBAND

Police Seek Man Wearing Wool Army Uniform.

By The Associated Press

MIAMI, Fla., April 9—Detective Sgt. John L. Deas said today the body of a woman found nude and strangled in a hotel room here early yesterday had been identified as that of Mrs. Evelyn Jean Downs, 23, of Miami.

Deas said the identification was made by her estranged husband, Frank Downs.

Sgt. John L. Deas of the homicide squad said a towel was twisted twice around her neck and knotted once. There was a scratch on her throat and a fresh wound on her shoulder, he added.

"It looks pretty definitely like a murder," Deas said.

Meanwhile military police laid out the city in areas and began a search for a man wearing a woolen army uniform who registered with the woman about 3 a. m. yesterday and left the hotel about 6:30 a. m. after telling the night clerk that his "wife had the key in the room."

Authorities also sought for questioning a man wearing a merchant marine warrant officer's uniform, whose picture was found attached to a book of matches in the womans purse.

OHIO AND COLUMBUS TIFF OVER FT. HAYES

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 9—The state of Ohio and the city of Columbus launched a battle today over hospital facilities at historic old Ft. Hayes.

When the post is abandoned by the army as surplus, the state would like to use the hospital as a rapid treatment center for venereal disease.

"The Ft. Hayes hospital is too good to be used for such treatment," Mayor James A. Rhodes declared today.

The mayor earlier had appealed to President Truman for first priority on all Ft. Hayes accommodations for veterans' housing.

The post hospital now has 75 beds and space for another 25.

Dr. Roger Heering, state health director, is seeking the hospital to replace the federal-state cooperative project at the nearby Lockbourne army air base.

MASS PHONE PICKETS APPEAR IN COLUMBUS

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 9—Striking Ohio Bell Telephone Co. employes began mass picketing this morning in an effort to keep "strike breakers" off the job and police were called to the scene.

Two hundred fifty strikers massed in front of the telephone company's two buildings. Police said there was no violence.

Only a narrow lane was left open by the strikers, who shouted "scab" and advice not to go to work as employes continuing to work entered the buildings.

A union spokesman said mass picketing was planned only for the hours when shifts changed. Picketing began an hour before the 8 a. m. shift today.

Persons desiring to pay bills were advised by police not to attempt to enter the buildings.

Picket lines began to thin out a half hour after the 8 a. m. shift began work.

HOPEFUL FOR SUCCESS IN COOLER NEGOTIATIONS

Company and Union Officials Meet Again Tomorrow.

Officials of the Universal Cooler division of the International Detrola Corp. and members of the Universal Cooler Unit of Local 750, UAW (CIO) today expressed optimism for a settlement of union demands for a new contract involving wage increases and various other adjustments.

A company official said there still was no change in the situation as reported yesterday, but negotiations between union and company officials would continue in a meeting scheduled for tomorrow.

Members of Local 750 voted Monday to authorize its executive committee to call a strike at the plant unless a contract agreement could be reached by the end of this month.

One of the principal issues of union demands is a wage increase of 23½ cents an hour. The union maintains the company is offering a seven cent increase.

HUMBLE, PROUD PAY RESPECTS TO FORD

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, April 9—The humble matched strides with the proud today past the bier of Henry Ford, whose industrial genius captured the imagination of the world.

The family, its grief at his sudden death locked in the heart, invited the public to share its final respects to Ford, who succumbed Monday night of a cerebral hemorrhage at the age of 83.

They were to come today, the grimy mechanic from the automotive plant, the graying men and women who followed his fabulous rise from the obscurity of a farm near Detroit, and the titans of industry to pay tribute to a dangerous but respected foe.

The body was to lie in state until 10 p. m. tonight at Greenfield village, amid the mementoes of Ford's full and colorful life.

At midnight tonight, the vast Ford industrial empire will hail activity.

Ernest R. Beech, executive vice president of the Ford Motor Co. said production will not resume until midnight Thursday in respect to the tall, angular man who built a $100,000 firm into an $800,000,000 industrial colossus.

On Thursday, Henry Ford will be borne to downtown Detroit for the last time for funeral services at St. Paul's Episcopal cathedral on Woodward avenue, the street whose dust he churned half a century ago with his first automobile.

Again the family has invited the public to participate in final pomage.

After the services, however, the body of Ford will be taken quietly and in private to a tiny, iron-fenced cemetery on the farm where he was born and where other generations have been laid to rest. There the family alone, including the widow with whom he was to have celebrated his 59th wedding anniversary Friday, will mark his passing.

COMMITTEE PLANS ARMY WEEK PARADE

In the second group will be the auxiliaries. In the third will be motorized equipment, with Boy Scouts as passengers. The Harding High school band and Buckeye Aerie No. 337 of Eagles band will participate. Other bands from Marion county may also be obtained, according to parade officials.

Major Norman A. Imrie, public relations representative of the Fifth Service Command, will speak at Hotel Harding tonight at 7 p. m. before a meeting of the mayor's Army advisory committee. He will speak over WMRN at 5:30 p. m.

PENNSY TRAINS COLLIDE AT CANTON

Crestline Man at Throttle of One; Fireman Injured.

By The Associated Press

CANTON, O., April 9 — A fireman was overcome by smoke and 250 passengers snaken up last night when the Pennsylvania railroad's Chicago to New York Manhattan Limited collided with a freight train here.

Derailment of two engines and six of the limited's 14 cars, plus several cars of the freight train, followed the collision. W. K. Sennett of Crestline, O., engineer of the passenger train, said the limited was traveling 40 miles an hour when the accident occurred.

The limited left the Canton depot a few minutes before it collided with the freight train, which was traveling in the same direction on an adjoining track. The passengers, slightly shaken, were returned to the depot and later resumed their journey on another train.

John Hermick, 31, of Rochester, Pa., fireman on one of the limited's locomotives, was overcome while battling a blaze in his cab. He was released after receiving emergency treatment at a hospital.

NEW PUPILS EXAMINED AT PRE-SCHOOL CLINICS

Approximately 20 boys and girls who will start to school next fall were given pre-school physical examinations at Pleasant township school yesterday as the Marion county health department opened its pre-school clinic.

Eighty pupils in the first four grades were given diphtheria toxoid, also a part of the health department's countywide spring health program. Yesterday's clinic was supervised by Dr. N. Sifritt, Marion county health commissioner, assisted by Miss Rita Hut, Mrs. Anne Sedelmaier and Mrs. Gladys Anderson, county health nurses.

A similar clinic was held at the Waldo school today. Dr. Sifritt announced one change in the clinic schedule. Examinations will be made at Claridon on May 9 instead of April 22 as originally scheduled.

The U. S. bureau of mines reported 68 mines manned by United Mine Workers members had 5,544 men back in the pits yesterday and 70,745 tons of coal were brought up. In strip mines and non-union pits, 3,090 men dug 36,690 tons of coal in Ohio yesterday, the bureau added.

STEEL FIRMS REPORT STEPPED-UP PROFITS

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 9—Twenty-two steel companies represent[ing] 88 per cent of the nation's steel-making capacity earned 48.9 per cent more money in 1946 than in 1945, although sales volume last year was 19 per cent lower, Iron Age reported today.

"The steel and coal strikes early in the year seriously interfered with 1946 operations and it must be presumed that without them earnings would have been far better," the magazine continued.

In comparing income for 1946 with 1945, Iron Age pointed out that income taxes were reduced and excess profit taxes eliminated in 1946.

Big gainers in net earnings include U. S. Steel Corporation which showed net income of $82,822,000 last year compared to $58,015,060 in 1945.

Others were Bethlehem Steel Corp., with $41,732,000 as against $34,947,000 and National Steel Corp., $20,462,000 compared to $11,118,000.

Barring serious strikes, wage boosts, and "extra" price cuts, earnings are expected to continue high through 1947, Iron Age said.

The steel labor outlook "is becoming darker every day," Iron Age said.

Negotiations between the Steel Workers Union and the U. S. Steel Corp. "have led up blind alleys because the steel firm insisted that no basic wage talks were of any value until the portal pay question was legislated out of the way," the paper said.

The paper contended that if the steel union should agree to a "very moderate wage increase" at least a token cut in steel base prices will be made by "big steel."

Route 95 Conference Is Set at Mt. Victory

Representatives of five communities will meet in Mt. Victory tomorrow night to discuss a proposal to extend state route 95 west of LaRue. Communities represented will be Marion, LaRue, Mt. Victory, Russells Point and Belle Center.

Marion will be represented by members of the highway committee of the Marion Chamber of Commerce. Walter Grumblatt is chairman of a sub-committee studying the project. The dinner meeting is sponsored by the Mt. Victory Lions club.

State route 95 ends at LaRue with only an unimproved county road extending west to Mt. Victory, causing a bottleneck in westbound traffic out of LaRue according to Chamber officials and LaRue business men.

ITCH (Scabies) is highly contagious and will continue for life if not stopped in some cases in the itch-mite which is immune to ordinary treatment. KXSORA kills the itch-mite almost instantly. Only three days KXSORA treatment is required. At all GALLAHER DRUG STORES.

MAN HELD AS CAR HITS 3 ON SIDEWALK

Car Jumps Over Curb; Driver Flees Scene.

A Kentucky man is being held in the prison today following an accident in which police say his car collided with another, jumped onto the sidewalk, struck three pedestrians and driven away before authorities arrived.

The accident occurred at South Main and Church streets about 6 p. m.

Police said a car driven by Robert McGuire, 33, of Lancer, Ky., going north on South Main collided with a truk driven by Charles E. Porter, 47, of 167 Church avenue, going east on Church street. McGuire's car then jumped the sidewalk at the northeast corner of the intersection, knocked off a parking meter, crashed down another and struck three people on the sidewalk, according to police.

The pedestrians were Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Hayden and their daughter, Katherine, all of 301 South Prospect street. They suffered shock and bruises but were reported not seriously injured.

A woman companion of McGuire, Velva DeLong, 23, of Edmonton, Ky., got out of the car. McGuire, however, drove off down East Church, according to reports.

A short time later, Harold Runkle of 269 Superior street, who had seen the accident, while waiting for Harry Baldauf of 315 Willow street to pick him up, saw McGuire walking on East Church street.

He held him while Baldauf drove back to the scene of the accident and informed police. McGuire had parked his car on Forest street.

Velva DeLong is also being held by police.

DUROCHER

Chandler continued:

"Mr. Rickey denied that he had made any statements which might be construed as detrimental to the character and integrity of Mr. MacPhail either personally or as a clubowner. Mr. MacPhail has said that he would accept Mr. Rickey's explanation and that aspect of the affair is hereby closed.

"The incident in Havana, which brought considerable unfavorable comment to baseball generally, was one of a series of publicity-producing affairs in which Manager Durocher has been involved in the last few months.

"Good Managers Set Example"

"Managers of baseball teams are responsible for the conduct of players on the field. Good managers are able to insure the good conduct of the players on the field and frequently by their example can influence players to be of good conduct off the field.

"Durocher has not measured up to the standards expected or required of managers or our baseball teams. As a result of the accumulation of unpleasant incidents, in which he has been involved, which the commissioner construes as detrimental to baseball, Manager Durocher is hereby suspended from participating in professional baseball for the 1947 season.

"The publication of the column "Durocher Says" written by Harold Parrot, will be suspended immediately. Harold Parrot is hereby fined $500 for writing a deliberately derogatory column about others in baseball and for violating the commissioner's order of silence following the Sarasota hearing.

Dressen "Fools" Rickey

"From evidence developed at the hearings, it is evident that Charles Dressen allowed Branch Rickey, his former employer, to labor under a misapprehension as to what action he (Dressen) would take with respect to his 1947 contract. The commissioner is convinced by the evidence that Dressen agreed with Rickey to remain as coach for two more years, although the formal contract had not been signed. For this and other conduct which the commissioner believes is harmful to baseball, Charles Dressen is hereby suspended for thirty (30) days, effective as of 15 April 1947.

"Because their officials engaged in a public controversy damaging to baseball, the New York American League club and the Brooklyn club are hereby fined $2,000 each.

Evidence produced at the hearings shows that the alleged gamblers were not guests of MacPhail and did not sit in his box in Havana.

"Evidence clearly shows that MacPhail did not offer Durocher a job as manager of the New York Yankees for the 1947 season and that statements quoting Durocher in this regard are untrue. MacPhail admitted refraining from announcing the signing of his manager, to give Durocher an opportunity to negotiate a better contract with Rickey. This could not be considered an act designed to engender a friendly feeling between two major league clubs, and the commissioner will not expect its repetition in the future.

Baseball rules expressly provide that disputes in baseball between club owners, managers and players are to be referred to the commissioner's office for settlement.

"Such controversies as these are definitely damaging to baseball and while no individual is responsible for what sportswriters or others might report in the public press, it is not expected that baseball folk will, in the future, do anything that would encourage such a controversy as this one.

Clubowners, managers, players and all others connected with baseball have been heretofore warned that association with known and notorious gamblers will not be tolerated and that swift disciplinary action will be taken against any person violating the order.

"All parties to this controversy are silenced from the time this order is issued."

Rickey Stunned by News Of Durocher Suspension

NEW YORK, April 9—President Branch Rickey of the Brooklyn Dodgers apparently was too stunned at notification of Leo Durocher's suspension as manager today to issue an immediate statement.

He declined to talk to newsmen by phone, but his assistants said Rickey probably would have something to say later in the day and might announce a manager to take Durocher's place this season.

The leading candidate appeared to be Ray Blades, Dodger coach, though there was certain to be strong support for Dixie Walker, the club's veteran outfielder.

Chandler continued:

"Mr. Rickey denied that he had made any statements which might be construed as detrimental to the character and integrity of Mr MacPhail either personally or as a clubowner. Mr MacPhail has said that he would accept Mr Rickey's explanation and that aspect of the affair is hereby closed.

"The incident in Havana, which brought considerable unfavorable comment to baseball generally, was one of a series of publicity-producing affairs in which Manager Durocher has been involved in the last few months.

"Good Managers Set Example"

"Managers of baseball teams are responsible for the conduct of players on the field. Good managers are able to insure the good conduct of the players on the field and frequently by their example can influence players to be of good conduct off the field.

"Durocher has not measured up to the standards expected or required of managers or our baseball teams. As a result of the accumulation of unpleasant incidents, in which he has been involved, which the commissioner construes as detrimental to baseball, Manager Durocher is hereby suspended from participating in professional baseball for the 1947 season.

"The publication of the column "Durocher Says" written by Harold Parrot, will be suspended immediately Harold Parrot is hereby fined $500 for writing a deliberately derogatory column about others in baseball and for violating the commissioner's order of silence following the Sarasota hearing

"From evidence developed at the hearings, it is evident that Charles Dressen allowed Branch Rickey, his former employer, to labor under a misapprehension as to what action he (Dressen) would take with respect to his 1947 contract. The commissioner is convinced by the evidence that Dressen agreed with Rickey to remain as coach for two more years, although the formal contract had not been signed For this and other conduct which the commissioner believes is harmful to baseball, Charles Dressen is hereby suspended for thirty (30) days, effective as of 15 April 1947.

"Because their officials engaged in a public controversy damaging to baseball, the New York American League club and the Brooklyn club are hereby fined $2,000 each.

Evidence produced at the hearings shows that the alleged gamblers were not guests of MacPhail and did not sit in his box in Havana

"Evidence clearly shows that MacPhail did not offer Durocher a job as manager of the New York Yankees for the 1947 season and that statements quoting Durocher in this regard are untrue MacPhail admitted refraining from announcing the signing of his manager, to give Durocher an opportunity to negotiate a better contract with Rickey. This could not be considered an act designed to engender a friendly feeling between two major league clubs, and the commissioner will not expect its repetition in the future

Baseball rules expressly provide that disputes in baseball between club owners, managers and players are to be referred to the commissioner's office for settlement.

"Such controversies as these are definitely damaging to baseball and while no individual is responsible for what sportswriters or others might report in the public press, it is not expected that baseball folk will, in the future, do anything that would encourage such a controversy as this one

Clubowners, managers, players and all others connected with baseball have been heretofore warned that association with known and notorious gamblers will not be tolerated and that swift disciplinary action will be taken against any person violating the order.

"All parties to this controversy are silenced from the time this order is issued."

Rickey Stunned by News Of Durocher Suspension

NEW YORK, April 9—President Branch Rickey of the Brooklyn Dodgers apparently was too stunned at notification of Leo Durocher's suspension as manager today to issue an immediate statement

He declined to talk to newsmen by phone but his assistants said Rickey probably would have something to say later in the day and might announce a manager to take Durocher's place this season

The leading candidate appeared to be Ray Blades, Dodger coach, though there was certain to be strong support for Dixie Walker, the club's veteran outfielder.

Marion Cubs Learn Practice Session Under Manager Burbrink No Snap

By GEORGE ROEST

Players out for this season's Marion baseball club learned yesterday that practice sessions under Nelson Burbrink, youthful new manager, will be no snap.

The Cubs held their first practice drills at Lincoln park yesterday. The first session had been scheduled for Monday but was postponed to yesterday because of the weather.

Newest addition to the list of players gunning for a berth on the Cubs is Don Montgomery, a local boy. He showed up yesterday and asked to be allowed to work out with the squad. He was given a uniform but will not be contracted unless he shows he can produce.

Starts Stiff Workouts

Burbrink started his spring training program by sending the boys through stiff workouts and making them do a lot of running.

Although a little pepper ball was played to give the players a chance to get the feel of the ball, practice was devoted chiefly to conditioning.

Today's plans are for a little more of the same.

Before the end of the week Burbrink hopes to hold a batting practice and get a line on his players.

Three Weeks To Pick Team

He has about three weeks in which to pare his team down to 20 men and does not plan to cut until very near the end of training.

Thirty prospects were on hand for opening drills and the team must be down to 20 by opening day, April 27. Several more candidates may yet report to the local camp.

The team has been unable to use the infield of the park diamond but it should be dried out tomorrow. The field yesterday was soft and players had to knock sod off of their cleats after the drills were completed.

One of Manager Burbrink's favorite pepper ball stunts is to bat grounders to several players lined up about 90 feet from him and if they don't catch onto them, send them double timing to the far fence.

None of the players who got into this little game of his could handle the batters all the time and consequently did a little running on their own.

Two of the players out yesterday were at the Cubs' GI training camp in St. Augustine Fla., with Burbrink last month. They are Jim Forbes, smooth fielding first baseman from Chicago and Bob Myers third base candidate from Lorain.

Conditioning Shows

Having started a little ahead of the most of the others, both stood yesterday's grind very well.

Some of the players have had more opportunity to get into condition than the others, however, none appeared to be especially weary at the end of yesterday's session.

Several bats used in yesterday's session were splintered as Manager Burbrink assured the players that he would get him some better ones for today's practice.

Park repairs and improvements are going ahead nicely and should have a fine appearance when fans file in for the home game, April 29.

Many local baseball fans showed up to observe the team yesterday. Few of them stayed throughout the complete session but they were coming and going all the time that the team was on the field.

Best Presidential Hurler Since Taft Ready To Go

"LEFTY" TRUMAN
"No Bean Bag Hurler"

By ARTHUR EDSON
(Associated Press Writer)

WASHINGTON, April 9—The first ball thrown this baseball season probably will be the best presidential pitch since the days of William Howard Taft.

The pitcher of course, will be H. Truman, a well known lefthander.

There has been no official announcement. But Mr. Truman has promised that—barring complications—he will drop around April 14 for the opening game between the Washington Senators and the New York Yankees.

Since the President looked very good last year in his first try in the majors, he doubtless will look even better this April.

And that will be very good indeed.

The authority for this is Morris A. Bealle, the town's No. 1 fan and author of the just published "The Washington Senators."

In his book Bealle says it was Taft who started this presidential habit of throwing of the first ball. Taft threw a high, hard one.

But look at those who followed him! Wilson, Harding, Coolidge, Hoover, Roosevelt.

Grumbles Bealle

"They all used the bean bag stance of a bloomer girl debutante."

But Truman, how refreshingly different. "No bean bag stuff," says Bealle admiringly. "The follow-through was perfect."

Oddly, that first presidential toss, by Taft in 1910, started one of the finest opening games in baseball history.

The late Walter Johnson was on the mound for the Senators, and he turned back the Philadelphia Athletics, 3-0.

CLEVELAND INFIELD DISPLAYS SPARKLE

Clicks Off 44th Double Play in 31 Games.

By The Associated Press

HICKORY, N. C., April 9 — Their outfield may not be anything to brag about but the Cleveland Indians' infield combination has been setting a terrific pace during the exhibition season.

To date the inner defense has clicked off 44 double plays in 31 games with Manager Lou Boudreau and Joe Gordon spearheading the performances.

The other members of the quartet, Ken Keltner at third and Eddie Robinson at first, have also contributed to the peace of mind of many of the Cleveland hurlers who realize their labors would be much more difficult with less capable talent filling the positions.

Boudreau, Gordon and Robinson turned in another twin killing in yesterday's exhibition game with the New York Giants at Sheffield, Ala., but the Giants won the tussle 4 to 0 to deadlock the series at six games.

Dave Koslo and Ken Trinkle throttled the Tribe with two hits. Koslo worked six innings and permitted a fourth inning single by Hal Peck and a sixth-inning double by his mound opponent, Bob Kuzava.

All the Giant scoring occurred in the sixth with Kuzava on the rubber, and featured Sid Gordon's three-run homer.

The Indians have optioned catcher Ralph Weigel to the Baltimore Orioles of the International league.

Indian-Redleg Post-Season Series Proposed by Veeck

By FRITZ HOWELL
Ohio AP. Sports Editor

COLUMBUS, O., April 9—Bill Veeck, sport-minded prexy of the Cleveland Indians, believes a post-season series between his club and the Cincinnati Reds—for the major league championship of Ohio—would be quite a thing.

And Veeck, always a guy looking for ideas which will make the turnstiles click merrily, plans to do something about it.

Warren Giles, boss of the Reds is a bit cool toward the plan, but Veeck says he's going to talk it over with the Cincinnati skipper—and the colorful Clevelander with the crew haircut is a persuasive talker.

Veeck's idea is to make such a series an annual affair, except when one of the clubs makes the World Series, which would make it a fairly regular fixture the way things have been going.

Bill favors a five or seven-game series, with the players cutting deeply into the receipts melon as they do in the big classic. That assured cut at the end of each season, Bill opines, might halt some of the barnstorming which is becoming more and more prevalent.

As part of his argument that such a series would draw well, and consequently pay off, Veeck declared he thought the fans down Cincinnati way probably would flock to the park to see Bob Feller and the other Cleveland stars in action, and that the same would be true in Cleveland where the folks might like a look at the National loopers.

"We might even play one game in Columbus," Veeck said, "to give the central Ohioans a quick glance at the boys on the state's two big league clubs. They read a lot about the fellows on the clubs but they seldom see them. This series would give everyone a chance to see all the Ohio stars on one field.

If we could work it into an annual fixture I believe it would really amount to something after a while and would be eagerly awaited by the fans.

"I'm going to see Warren and try to work out something. I believe we can get together."

Giles said he didn't see reason for such a series, and he didn't think it would draw enough fans to make it worthwhile—but he hasn't listened to Veeck's arguments yet.

100 Harding Athletes Out For Spring Sports Program

The opening of the Harding spring sports program was postponed one day because of the cold weather Monday.

Monday afternoon had been scheduled as the date for the first track and baseball workouts but the sports were unable to get under way until yesterday afternoon.

Interest in the program has been high and Coaches Wiley Simpson and Thomas greeted about 160 yesterday afternoon.

Divided Evenly

About 50 are trying for the baseball and about the same number the track team. Several boys are looking for positions on both teams.

The first day was devoted chiefly to limbering up exercises and skull practice. Boys out for each team also were put to work conditioning the baseball diamond and working on the track field.

Wiley, who handles baseball, had his charges help in grading the basepaths and working the pitchers mound and territory around home plate.

He used part of the practice time to run a skull session giving pointers on the game and explaining what was expected of the boys out for the team.

Fielding, Batting Practice

After that fielding and batting practice was held. Several positions on the team are not being filled by returning players but the turnout yesterday gave Wiley reason to believe the problem of filling these slots will not be too great.

A club with hitting strength and power at the plate is what he is hoping to develop.

After putting his prospective thin clads through exercises Simpson put them to work digging pits for the high jump, broad jump and pole vault and also had them scooping out runways.

Track Meet Scheduled

Neither the baseball nor the track field was especially damp. Practices are scheduled to continue through this spring until two weeks before the end of school. The first scheduled track meet is at Ashland a week from Wednesday.

The Mansfield track meet is billed for a week from Friday, and local performers may be taken to this one provided Simpson finds he has some outstanding performers.

Although the teams did not practice Monday as scheduled, a meeting designed to generate interest in baseball and football was held after school.

MEET THE CUBS

Forbes Says It'll Be Hard Year For Him – Financially

James Forbes doesn't believe he'll pocket many five dollar bills this baseball season.

"And me a left-handed hitter," the 19-year-old candidate for a first baseman's job with the Marion Cubs, commented yesterday when he saw the two $5 targets on the left field fence.

This will be the Chicago boy's first season in organized baseball. However, he's no stranger to the diamond.

While attending Chicago's Farragut High school he won three letters in the sport.

Later he played in the Mid-West league, a semi-pro loop composed of teams in the Chicago vicinity.

He served with the Army Air Force during the war.

Schlairet Ball Teams Hold First Workouts

Schlairet baseball and softball teams held first workouts of the season at McKinley park Monday afternoon.

Fifteen players showed up for opening day exercises.

The next practice has been slated for Sunday at 2 p. m. at McKinley park. Kenny Somerlot is coaching baseball this season and Coxey Weiss is prepping the softballers.

About five of the candidates out Monday were players who were not with Schlairet last season and the coaches have stated that any others interested should be at the Sunday afternoon session.

O.S.U. NINE WINS 6-3

By The Associated Press

ATHENS, O., April 9—Ohio State's baseball nine won a nine-inning 6 to 3 triumph over Ohio university's Bobcats yesterday. The Bucks bagged four runs in the final frame after being held to three hits—one Bill Cope's fifth inning homer.

EWELL BLACKWELL TO START FOR REDS

Elongated Hurler Nominated To Pitch Opener.

By The Associated Press

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., April 9—Ewell Blackwell, one of the longest and leanest throwers in baseball, in all probability will be the Cincinnati Reds' starting pitcher next Tuesday when they open the 1947 National league season at home against the St. Louis Cardinals.

Johnny Neun, the Redleg manager, said yesterday Blackwell was his present choice for the big game, but to guard against unforseen developments added "If he's okay."

Blackwell, a Californian who towers six-five and carries less than 185 pounds on his long frame, definitely was "okay" Saturday when he held the Boston Red Sox to four hits in nine innings.

On the face of it, Blackwell's record of nine wins and 13 losses last year isn't too impressive, but he was a more effective pitcher than the book indicates. Six of those victories were shutouts.

Rookie Eddie Erautt turned in a five-hitter for Cincinnati here yesterday as the Reds shellacked the Boston Red Sox, 9-1. His mates rallied behind him with 11 base knocks, including two doubles a triple and three home runs. Outfielder Clyde Vollmer, who calls Cincinnati home, paced the Redleg attack with a single three-bagger and a homer in five trips to the plate. Eddie Lukon and Bert Haas also hit for the circuit.

Marion Team Third In Lorain Tourney

A Marion team, Fahey Bank, is listed in third place in the Class A division of the Inter-City bowling tournament which is being held in Lorain, according to a report of the tourney by Mac D. Metz, ABC representative in this area.

The team has turned in a 2,835 score and trails Son's Bar of Sandusky, a team with a 2,953 total, and Ten Pin Recreation of North Baltimore, a club with a 2,944 total.

Transue-Williams of Alliance is fourth with 2,919 and Findlay Body Repair is fifth with 2,906.

About 15 other teams from Marion will compete in the tourney May 3 and 4.

IN CRASH NEAR NEVADA

NEVADA—Lee Markley is recovering in the Bucyrus hospital from injuries received in a collision on route 30-N, east of Nevada, Friday afternoon. He suffered a broken left wrist and deep lacerations of the left hip. His brother Robert who accompanied him suffered head lacerations and cuts. Claude R. Bushong of Lima, the driver of the other car was treated and dismissed from the hospital. The cars were demolished.

PAINTERS WIN VERDICT IN SUIT ON CONTRACT

Awarded $166 for Courthouse Renovation Job.

Frank Slatzer and Jesse L. White, partners doing business as Slatzer and White, were awarded a judgment of $166.24 by a common pleas court jury late yesterday in their suit against Nellie R. Little, doing business at the Midwest Sandblast Co. The plaintiffs had asked for $310.

The suit developed out of the renovation of the exterior of the Marion county courthouse in 1945. The plaintiffs alleged the defendant entered into a contract with county commissioners for the renovation work and the plaintiffs entered into a verbal contract with the defendant to paint the dome and other portions of the building, but claimed the defendant later employed others to do the work. Their suit was for loss of profits of the project.

J. W. Jacoby was attorney for the plaintiff and J. D. Williamson and W. P. Moloney were attorneys for the defendant. Common Pleas Judge Paul D. Smith was on the bench.

The verdict was reached after slightly over one hour's deliberation and was signed by each of the 12 jurors.

In Piano Recital

"World's Heaviest Grappler Here Thursday"

Martin Levi the world's heaviest wrestler, weight 640 pounds will take part in a battle royal Thursday night at the Armory. Martin's pictures have appeared in all the large cities where he has appeared and he has been a top attraction for the past eight years. Usually there are five men in a battle royal but Thursday night there will be to eliminate Martin first because four for several reasons, one is that most of the wrestlers try of his size (but this way he is bound to wrestle one of the men) and second, on account of the size of the ring and the extra weight. The other three men in the battle royal are, Renee LaBell, the fast and clever Canadian, Rufus Jones who always makes it tough for any wrestler who he is in the ring with, and Bull Montana a new boy to Marion fans but one who has been headlining shows in Toledo for the past several weeks. The first two men to lose in the battle royal will come back for the 45-minute semi-final and the last two in the ring will be the two-hour main go. All matches two out of three falls. A 10-minute prelim will start the show at 8:30.

There will be no advance in prices for this extra attraction and call Markert & Lewis Cigar Store early for your best ringside seats.—Adv.

BUCYRUS ORGANIZES FOR SOFTBALL YEAR

BUCYRUS, April 9—Six teams were registered and the schedule was held open for signing additional teams next Monday when 20 players, managers and team representatives met to lay plans for the softball season here Monday night.

The group voted to open the season May 12 and both two game games and games under the lights at Aumiller park will be scheduled. The new Lions club baseball field is also scheduled to have night lights erected and ready for use early this season.

Teams already registered to be sponsored by the American Legion, Lions club, Moose, Odd Crane, Lone Pine and Swan Rubber. A F.V.W. team is expected to be added this week.

As part of his argument that such a series would draw well, and consequently pay off, Veeck declared he thought the fans down Cincinnati way probably would flock to the park to see Bob Feller and the other Cleveland stars in action, and that the same would be true in Cleveland where the folks might like a look at the National loopers.

"We might even play one game in Columbus," Veeck said, "to give the central Ohioans a quick glance at the boys on the state's two big league clubs. They read a lot about the fellows on the clubs but they seldom see them. This series would give everyone a chance to see all the Ohio stars on one field.

If we could work it into an annual fixture I believe it would really amount to something after a while and would be eagerly awaited by the fans.

"I'm going to see Warren and

Programs on the Air

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 9 — The death of Henry Ford has changed the format of the Dinah Shore show, sponsored by the company he founded, for its regular CBS broadcast from Hollywood at 9.30 tonight. Instead of the usual comedy-variety, it will be a musical memorial to the veteran automobile manufacturer. Included will be some of his favorite songs and a eulogy delivered from Detroit by Edgar Guest.

In addition, a special telecast of the opening of the circus tonight in New York which the company had arranged to relay over the CBS picture station, has been cancelled

Because of the telephone strike, a change is being affected in one feature for the opening of "Opintonaire," different type forum, on MBS at 8.30 tonight from Washington. Instead of a telephone poll of listeners on a "yes" and "no" question, they will be asked to write in.

All times given are Eastern Standard Time. Erroneous listings, if any, are caused by last-minute changes made by stations and networks.

NERVOUSNESS SHOWN BY STOCK MARKET

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 9 — The stock market displayed a large degree of nervousness today with some extension of yesterday's sell-off

While many issues opened at previous levels, a wide scattering dipped fractionally in fairly active trading The pace soon settled back, however, and changes were held in narrow limits. Near midday declines were in the majority.

Customers' reluctance to make commitments were attributed to a desire to await possible price policy pronouncements from the President's cabinet conference, and to disquieting effects of current labor news

Depressed at times were American Telephone, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Goodyear, Youngstown Sheet Bethlehem, General Motors, Texas Co., Standard Oil (N J), North American, American Smelting, Anaconda Copper, International Harvester, Au Reduction and Pennsylvania Railroad Resistant were Western Union "A," Great Northern preferred, Republic Steel and Du Pont.

LOVE'S PERILOUS PATH

BY ADELE GARRISON

MY father's face was a study as he heard Dicky's excuse for leaving the impending conference and I knew that his heart and his head were contradicting each other in summary fashion.

He never lets anything interfere with our care of our idolized little granddaughter, but I knew from his expression that he very much wanted Dicky at the conference which, he had indicated, must be held immediately.

"Well, I suppose" he began, but I interrupted him summarily.

"Please let me take care of this,"I said, and going to the telephone, called the Veritzen apartment.

To my dismay, Philip himself answered the telephone, but I made my request sound offhand.

"May I speak to Olina?" I asked.

"Of course," he answered, "but how is Mary?"

My mental barometer rose quickly at the inquiry. Philip Veritzen is not a man to deal in "false face" friendliness. If he had been implacable against Mary, he would not have asked after her.

"We do not know as yet," I said. "Dr. Twitchell gave her a powerful sedative, and she has gone to sleep. He will be up here before she wakens in the morning."

"When he comes, will you tell him I wish to see him?" he asked.

May See Him Tonight

"You may see him a little later tonight if you wish," I said. "My father came in unexpectedly just now, and it appears he meant to contact Dr. Twitchell later this evening, and was very glad to find him here. They are consulting now, but after they are finished, Dr. Twitchell could see you, I am sure."

He hesitated for a full second. Then his resentment patently triumphed over his solicitude.

"No, I would prefer to see him in the morning," he said. "And I'll call Olina at once."

She came to the telephone a minute later, and put the same query as had her stepfather, and I gave her the same answer.

"I need you badly, Olina," I told her then hastily. "Could you give me less than an hour's time right away?"

"Of course," she said. "What is it you want me to do?"

"Dicky is ready to go for Faith," I explained, "but something suddenly has come up, and—"

"And you want me to pinch-hit for him," she said, and I smiled involuntarily at the readiness with which the former princess of Transvania had picked up American slang. "I can't think of anything more delightful. I've done it once or twice before, you know, so I don't need any directions. Shall I bring her to your apartment, or may we have her up for a little while?"

"Some other time, soon," I said, "but I would rather you brought her here first this afternoon."

As I turned from the telephone, my father's eyes flashed gratitude to me.

"Thank you, dearest," he said, "not only for solving the problem of Dicky's remaining here but for the boon of letting me see Faith. Now that I do not have to hunt for Dr. Twitchell, I can stay until Faith arrives, and remain a few minutes afterward."

Then his face and eyes changed, and I realized that I soon should know the reason for his coming to us with Jack and with Katharine.

"Please draw your chairs closer," he said. "I know that the door into Mary's room must remain open, and we must take care to keep our voices low as not to disturb her."

"A swing band wouldn't disturb her," Dr. Twitchell said confidently.

"But we'll keep our voices low, nevertheless," my father said. "I want no chance of anyone in the corridor overhearing some chance word. This is what Junior and Roderick used to call 'very hush-hush stuff.'"
